Create a beautiful greeting card and learn the art of Iris Paper Folding, the technique of taping or gluing colorful strips of paper behind a cutout shape, called an aperture. The folded paper follows a pattern that will create a layered, spiral design. The finished center resembles the iris of a camera lens.

Elaine Almquist is an audiologist in the Boston metro area. A homebody at heart, her free time is spent with her husband and two cats. In addition to iris paper folding, she also enjoys quilling and other paper crafts.

Registration is required. Call or come in to register.
Blackstone residents can register starting Monday, November 2.
All others can register starting Monday, November 9.
